Death Reveals Existence of Naughton, Ironmaster's Confidential Agent.

Special Desputch to THE SUN. PITTSBURG, Dec. 4 .-- A special train nembers of the family and a few intimate friends of the late financier arrived from New York at 10:15 o'clock this morning. The train, consisting of three private cars and a baggage car alled with flowers, pulled into the Dallas avenue siding of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Homewood. The funeral party proceeded at once to Clayton, the Pittaburg home of the Fricks. The coffin was taken there at the same time and was placed in the music room

Mr. Frick's body was borne to Pittsburg in his private car, Westmoreland, which he always had used in recent years in making trips between New York and this city. It stopped at the same place where it usually did on the financier's visits. Accompanying the body in the Westmoreland were Mrs. Frick, Miss Helen Frick, both heavily veiled, and Mr. and Mrs. Childs Frick. Also in the party were Mr. and Mrs Charles E. Clapp, John P. Grier, Dr. and Mrs. Hoguet, Col. and Mrs. George Harvey. Col. Harvey and Mr. Grier were among the honorary palibearers at the funeral services held yesterday in New York.

At the Homewood siding to receive the funeral party were a few relatives and friends of the family and those who had been in the service of Mr. Frick for many years. Among them were A. P. Childs of Shady avenue, brother of Mrs. Frick; his son, W. S. Childs; Miss Mary Painter, 1029 Western avenue, North-side, an intimate friend of Miss Frick her brother, Dawson Painter; David Frazer, superintendent of Clayton for wenty-three years, and John J. Gerlach, $51 Beach avenue, Northside, for seven years chauffeur for Mr. Frick.

Flowers Cover the Coffin.

Besides the Westmoreland, the private cars making up the train were the Clarement and the Republic. The train was in charge of W. H. Eagan, station master at the Pennsylvania Railroad Terminal in New York. The coffin, of dark brown, was covered with roses. tulips, lilles of the valley and a small green wreath tied with white ribbon. Judge Joseph Buffington of the United the list of honorary pallbearers.

The active pullbearers will be W. J. Naughton, Mr. Frick's confidential secretary; E. V. Hays, cashler of the Union Savings Bank; Joseph S. Moore, senior member of the firm of Moore, Leonard & Lynch; Carroll P. Davis, assistant trust officer of the Union Trust Comment of the Union Trust Company; C. F. Chubb and John E. Mr. Naughton has been referred to as "Mr. Frick's right hand man" and "Frick's sphinx," and well it might have been said of him, for Mr. Frick's intimate friends declare that Mr. Naughton handled every penny of the steel master's great fortune, variously estimated at $200,000,000 to $200,000,000. greatest variety of interests of any other man in the world and Mr. Naughton managed them all. Mr. Naughton is not bearing the body of Henry C. Frick, yet 35 years old. He is of modest disposition, unassuming almost to the point of diffidence. It will be news to many of Mr. Frick's intimates that the financier ever had such a man in his employ Mr. Naughton spent his time between Pittsburg and New York. He frequently had been seen in Mr. Frick's company, but few guessed who he was. Mr. Frick "thought the world of Mr. Naughton," to use the words of a Pittsburg banker "There is only one other man more sphinxlike than Mr. Frick himself," observed an acquaintance to-day, "and that is the financier's confidential man,

Many flags were flown at half most as a tribute to the dead steel master. Crepe was hung on the doors of banks and buildings with which Mr. Frick had been "Blue Bird Ball," which will be held in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-As-toria on the night of December 26. The ball will precede the first performance buildings with which Mr. Frick had been in this country of the opera "L'Oiseau Basis." Bleu," by Alfred Wolff, the new French conductor, at the Metropolitan Opera, to be given there the night following. Maurice Maeterlines, who wrote the book, and the composer will be the guests of honor at the ball, the proceeds of which will be divided among several charities in this country and Europe. It is expected the ball will be interesting and artistic. The women will appear in fancy costumes, which will be suggestive of the Blue Bird. Prizes are to be offered for the most original costumes, one of them being a bird cage of platinum and diamonds arranged as a brooch.

TWO PIANISTS GIVE RECITALS HERE

Alexandrowska and Marguerite Volavy Appear.

Two plane recitals took place yester day in Acolian Hall. In the afternoon Luna Alexandrowska, a pianist who was heard here some nine or ten seasons ago, gave a programme which included a sonata by Paradisi, a set of ten pleces by Rebikoff entitled "Silhouettes Enfantines," and Paderewski's "Krako-wiak." She showed an adequate technic in her playing and a sense of rhythm, but her tone was often hard. She was less successful in Schumann's "Papillons" and in Debussy's Les Collines d'Anaca-pri," because there was insufficient color and imagination, less, indeed, than in such pieces as Spalding's "Berceuse." which was repeated, and the "Segue-dillas" of Albeniz, which she gave with good phrasing, feeling and spirit.

In the evening Marguerite Volavy, a Schemian planist, who has been heard Echemian planist, who has been heard here before, gave a programme styled as "An evening of Slavic music." Her list contained music by Smetana, Dvorak and Chopin and two numbers marked as played for the first time in America, namely, a sonata, opus 3, by Bortklewicz, and five pieces from a "Slowakian" suits of Vitezslav Novak. Her playing contained admirable suits with a finer. contained admirable spirit with a fluent technic, but it lacked tone color and finish of style. The Bortklewics sonata did not prove to be an important work It had plenty of light melody, but no de

Tell your customers not only to buy their underwear a half dozen sets at a time, but to have them marked 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and wear them that way. The average fellow goes to the bureau drawer and pulls out whatever's on top. As a result, some sets wear out sooner than others. And no set gives all the wear it should.

is to have them numbered." Let's mark yours next time you buy! Not that we haven't lots of good underwear to sell, but when we have a good idea we like to pass it on.

The thing is to rotate
